HURRY LORIMER TALKS IN SENATE

Chairman Dillingham and Senator Fletcher Make the Opening Speeches.

SEEK A VOTE THIS WEEK

Florida Statesman in a 20,000 Word Speech Refers to Roosevelt Several Times—Paid High Tribute to Private Life of Illinoisan.

Washington, July 9.—High speed was put on the Lorimer case by the United States senate in an effort to reach a vote on the Illinois case before the end of this week. Senator Dillingham of Vermont, chairman of the special investigating committee, while waiting to resume his speech declared he had hoped to finish, but his strength would not hold out. When Senator Reed of Missouri arose to interrupt after the Vermont senator had been speaking half an hour Mr. Dillingham declined to be halted, declaring he wished to finish his story. When Senator Fletcher, another majority member of the committee, began talking, Senator Dillingham declared he would conclude later.

Senate Becomes Attentive.
As Senator Dillingham discussed the "jack-pot" interest of the senators increased and Senator Reed insisted on questioning Senator Dillingham's contention that the 1909 legislative money came from "the common corruption fund." When he started to explain Senator Lorimer's loan of $10,000 to Lee O'Neil Browne for the latter's defense Senator Reed demanded: "Wouldn't it be more natural for Senator Lorimer to use this money to defend himself?"

Sensor Dillingham insisted that Senator Lorimer had pursued the course of political honor in aiding Browne when in trouble on his account. He told how Browne and others had been acquitted and re-elected. Senator Lorimer prompted Senator Dillingham as the latter continued his speech. The Vermont senator did not recall the location of James Keeley's summer home, and, pausing, turned to Senator Lorimer. He vouchsafed it was at Wheaton, Ill.

Fletcher in 20,000 Word Speech.
Senator Fletcher of Florida started on a speech of 20,000 words when Senator Dillingham suspended.

Sensor Fletcher tore into the Kohl-saat-Funk stories, asserting they conflicted, charging H. H. Kohl-saat with violation of confidence and Clarence S. Funk with fixing different dates for the alleged conversation with Edward Hines.

"And so the whole fabric of alleged new evidence tumbles," says Senator Fletcher, after his scathing arraignment of Mr. Kohl-saat. "On it was based the action of Theodore Roosevelt, a spectacular figure in public life then as now, refusing and publishing to the world his refusal to sit at a dinner given by the Hamilton club of Chicago with Senator Lorimer as one of its members. Mr. Kohl-saat brought about that by repeating the gossip from Funk to the example of purity in politics and high ideals in government and good manners in society."

"He (Roosevelt) could enjoy a luncheon with Booker T. Washington at the White House, but could not afford to dine in the same room with Mr. Lorimer, a member of the club of which he was a guest. The damning of a respectable citizen, the head of a beautiful family, the representative of a state in high office, was a welcome thing if it gave opportunity to attitudinize as the standard of honor and righteousness and the acme of civil virtue."

He paid a high tribute to Senator Lorimer's private life.

FALLING CROSS ARM INJURED WORKMAN

Thomas Nagle, an employe of the line gang of the Illinois Northern Utilities company, had a narrow escape from serious injury yesterday afternoon when a falling cross arm struck him on the head. Fortunately the blow was a glancing one and the young man escaped with a scalp wound which, however, will prove painful.

NEW DEPOT AT LASALLE?

Local railroad men have heard well founded rumors that the Illinois Central company is making arrangements for a new $13,000 depot at LaSalle. The LaSalle station for years has been inconvenient and an eye-sore to passengers and the improvement, if made, will doubtless be appreciated by patrons of that line.

CAUSTIC WORDS; FOR ARCHBALD

House Committee Says He Is Unfit—Moral Responsibility Deadened.

SEES BARGAINS ON BENCH

Present Thirteen Articles of Impeachment in Unanimous Report Against Commerce Court Judge—Penalty for Conviction Severe.

Washington, July 9.—Chairman Henry D. Clayton of the committee on judiciary of the house of representatives presented to the house 13 articles of impeachment against Judge Robert W. Archbald of the United States court of commerce. Mr. Clayton's report was unanimous from his committee. It constitutes the ninth impeachment of a judicial or civil official of the United States since the foundation of the government and is the first since the impeachment trial of Judge Charles Swayne of the northern district of Florida, who was acquitted February 27, 1905.

"The conduct of this judge has been exceedingly reprehensible and in marked contrast to the high sense of judicial ethics and probity that generally characterizes the federal judiciary," the committee said in summing up its findings of misbehavior in office against Judge Archbald. His business transactions while a judge on the bench were held to unfit him for further service and a resolution was presented impeaching him and halting him for trial before the United States senate.

Says Moral Sense is Deadened.

"Your committee is of opinion that Judge Archbald's sense of moral responsibility has become deadened," said the report. "He has prostituted his high office for personal profit. He has attempted by various transactions to commercialize his potentiality as judge. He has shown an overweening desire to make gainful bargains with parties having cases before him or likely to have cases before him. To accomplish this purpose he has not hesitated to use his official power and influence. He has degraded his high office and has destroyed the confidence of the public in his judicial integrity. He has forfeited the condition upon which he holds his commission and should be removed from office by impeachment."

Chairman Clayton today presented a resolution providing for the management of the trial before the senate. The full committee designated Chairman Clayton, Representatives Floyd of Arkansas, Davis of West Virginia and Webb of North Carolina, Democrats, and Norris of Nebraska, Sterling of Illinois and Howland of Ohio, Republicans, as managers to prosecute the trial before the senate.

Penalty is Severe.

The penalty provided in successful impeachment cases is removal from office and may include a bar from ever holding any office of trust or honor again. The senate, which tries officials impeached by the house, has been called upon to act as an impeachment court eight times in the past. One trial was of a president, Andrew Johnson, who was acquitted; another of a cabinet officer, Secretary of War William W. Belknap, acquitted, and one of a senator, William Blount of Tennessee, who resigned. An associate justice of the Supreme court, Samuel Chase, was acquitted.

BEST FIELD OF CORN IN PALMYRA TOWNSHIP

What is believed to be the best field of corn in Palmyra township is being raised by Russell Hotchkiss, who resides about midway between Prairieville and Gap Grove. The corn is very high, of a splendid color and is even throughout.—Sterling Standard.

STATE ACCEPTS ARMORY PLANS

George Downing of this city, who has been contemplating erecting a new armory, and who has submitted his plans to the State of Illinois for approval, received a wire this afternoon from Adjutant General Dickson which reads:

"Plans approved. Will enter lease on agreed terms."

F. S. DICKSON, Adj. Gen.

This means that the state will lease Mr. Downing's armory and will move the headquarters of company G, I. N. G., to that building when the structure is completed. It also means that Mr. Downing will now be warranted in going ahead with his work as he is now assured of a good tenant, and Dixon will soon be further beautified by the new building. The lower floor of the armory will be used as a garage.

HILLIS WILL LEAD FIGHT FOR TAFT

PRESIDENT'S PRIVATE SECRETARY WILL CONDUCT CAMPAIGN.

Washington, D. C., July 9.—Special to Telegraph—Charles D. Hillis, private secretary to President Taft, has been selected by the president to lead the fight for his re-election and was today named as chairman of the national republican committee.

MANY ATTEND MENDOTA RACES

LOCAL FANS WILL WATCH THEIR FAVORITES SPEED THIS WEEK.

The entry list for the Mendota races, which start today and continue until Friday, and which will attract many Dixon lovers of the sport, show that a number of horses are entered, while J. W. Hoyle of Dixon in the afternoon's 2:35 trot, Robert Cushman of Sterling has Legator entered, while J. W. Hoyle of Dixon has two entries in the 2:28 trot tomorrow afternoon, Sony Atogo and Exall. Another entry in tomorrow's races in which Dixon horsemen are interested is that of Sidlena, owned by E. Burright of Oregon, the mare being in the 2:14 trot.

Dr. J. W. Rice of this city has his trotter, Prince Dell, in the 2:23 trot of Thursday and the 2:18 trot Friday, while E. Burright of Oregon also has Liddon entered in the 2:23 trot. The same man has Citator entered in the 2:16 pace Friday afternoon.

Joe Miller took a party of horse lovers to Mendota in his machine this morning, while many more made the trip by train.

POWER USERS INTERESTED.

Several of the electric power users in Dixon are apparently exercised over the news item that the Illinois Northern Utilities company intend making a radical change in its power distribution, which will call for a complete change of motors from those now in use in Dixon. Many of the patrons have practically new motors and feel that they should be put to no further expense when a change is made.

Inquiries have been directed to the Telegraph asking what allowance the company would make in exchanging new motors for the ones now in use. The Telegraph is in the same position as other power users and assumes that the company will live up to the promise which Chas. A. Munroe, vice president of the company, made at the city hall on the evening of Tuesday, April 2, when the question was put to him by the late M. Maloney.

To quote from the Telegraph of Wednesday, April 3rd, in its account of the council meeting of the previous evening:

"Mr. Maloney asked what was to be done here with the motors, in case the new company did what they are very likely to, change the system so that power users will have to have different kinds of motors. Mr. Munroe said afterward that the three phase motors would be substituted and the old motors taken over at their purchase price, which is but very little lower than the new ones. Mr. Munroe put the difference at about $10 on a ten horse power motor."

It will appear from the above that the company, if they stick to their promise, will change these motors with very little, if any, cost to the power users.

ROOFING UTLEY BUILDING

Workmen are placing the Utley building on Galena avenue under roof, and it is practically certain that that detail of the work will be completed by the end of the week.

SAYS FUNK SUIT WAS FOR REVENGE

TESTIMONY AGAINST LORIMER SAID TO BE CAUSE BY MRS. HENNING.

FORTY MINERS KILLED IN ENGLAND

Explosion and Fire Brings Death to Many Homes at Conibrough—Thirty Bodies Recovered.

Chicago, July 9.—Special to Telegraph—Mrs. Joseph O. Henning, the wife of John C. Henning who sued Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester company for alienation, is said to have confessed in New York today that the suit was simply a conspiracy in revenge for the Lorimer testimony.

Mrs. Henning declares that Lawyer Donohoe urged her to enter the scheme because there were persons desirous of having the suit brought against the harvester man.

Bad Disaster in England.

Conibrough, Eng., July 9.—Special to Telegraph—Forty miners were killed and many others injured in a disastrous explosion which occurred in the Cadey Colliery here today.

A bad fire started soon after the blast and hindered the work of rescue. The space around the opening of the pit is the scene of heart rending sights and it filled with half-crazed relatives of the slain men, who are gathered there to await for news and in efforts to identify the bodies of their loved ones.

Thirty bodies have already been recovered and the officials having charge of the rescue work state that they hope to have the remains of the rest of the victims out of the mines before night.

NEIGHBORS FRIGHTEN BURGLARS AWAY

AN ATTEMPT TO ENTER NORTH SIDE GROCERY WAS FOILED.

An attempt to enter the Enterprise Grocery store on West Fellows street was frustrated last night by neighbors who, hearing the noise caused by the would-be robber breaking the glass of a front window, frightened him away.

The attempted entrance to the store took place at about 11:15, just as the outgoing interurban car was passing the store. It is thought the fellow believed the noise of the car would drown that of the breaking glass, but in that he was mistaken, for several people living in that vicinity, who were sitting on porches, heard the falling glass and immediately frightened the man away, at the same time calling the officers.

The fellow got away, but the officers have been furnished with a good description of him and they hope to identify and arrest him. There is no doubt that the work was done by local talent.

NOTHING IMPORTANT AT COUNCIL MEETING

CITY FATHERS HELD FEATURELESS SESSION—ALLOW HANGING OF TWO ELECTRIC SIGNS.

Last night's meeting of the city council was one of those uneventful sessions which are so common in the middle of the month, there being very little business of any kind for the commissioners to consider. The absence from the city of Mayor Britton and Commissioner Gannon limited the attendance to a bare working majority, which majority immediately referred petitions of Stanley Baker and Emil Pressler for permission to hang electric signs at their places of business, to Commissioner Schuler, with power to act. Following which they adjourned.

CAMORRISTS ARE FOUND GUILTY

Caged Italian Band Act Like Maniacs As Sentences Are Imposed.

DE MARINIS CUTS HIS THROAT

Pandemonium Reigns Until Judge Clears Courtroom—Soldiers With Fixed Bayonets Guard Prisoners—Trial Lasts 2 Years.

Viterbo, July 9.—The jury which has for nearly two years been hearing the evidence against the Camorristi on the charge of murdering the Cuocolos returned a verdict of guilty for almost all directly or indirectly implicated or responsible for the double murder. The charge of "criminal association" was sustained against all except five, who have already been discharged from custody, having served the maximum penalty which they could receive under the law.

The reading of the verdict was attended by scenes of the utmost confusion and violence. De Marinis, whose wife made votive offerings at the church of Santa Rosa, and who fainted in the courtroom, attempted suicide upon hearing the verdict, inflicting a ghastly wound in his throat. Lawyers Cheer Erroneously.

The lawyers loudly cheered Erricone, who made a speech calling himself innocent and declaring that the verdict was the greatest crime of the century.

Before the prisoners were admitted to the courtroom to hear the verdict their cage was searched carefully and 12 carabinieri placed inside. In some way the prisoners had already been informed of the nature of the verdict and entered the cage weeping and moaning. Erricone was the first to speak.

"Why all these carabinieri?" he shouted. "You have already killed us. I may be a criminal, but I never committed this crime. Your verdict is the greatest crime of the century."

De Marinis Blashes Throat.

At this all the lawyers jumped up and, rushing towards the cage, applauded and cheered, while the president rang the bell and otherwise endeavored to stop the tumult. Suddenly the carabinieri were seen hastily descending from the topmost bench in the cage and flung themselves upon De Marinis, who, brandishing a blood-stained weapon in his hand, cried: "Cowards! I am innocent!" Covered with blood and fighting to wrest himself from the carabinieri, De Marinis was a ghastly spectacle. "This blood will be visited on you," he cried, turning to the jury and waving a crucifix.

Groans and howls filled the courtroom. The cage by this time had become a veritable den of mad men. Rapi, one of the convicted men, after trying to quiet his companions, swayed and fell against the bars of the cage in a swoon.

Judge Bianchi, failing to establish order, had the courtroom cleared. The prisoners, one by one, were forcibly taken from the cage and returned to the detention room, each guarded by a carabinieri. De Marinis, who was removed to a hospital, is expected to recover. Twelve stitches were required to close the wound in his throat.

Sentences of Prisoners.

Alfano and Rapi, instigators; Sorino, Salvi, Morea, Cerrato and De Marinis, plotters, 30 years at hard labor for each and three years under police surveillance. Sixteen members of the band who were found guilty of criminal association were sentenced to five years, with three years of police surveillance. De Mattie was given 20 years; Ascittore and the priest, Vitozzi, who were charged with perjury, were given nine and six years respectively. Eight were discharged. The Camorristi will appeal against the sentence.

NOTICE TO WATER CONSUMERS.

The excessive hot and dry weather makes it absolutely necessary that the rules and regulations of the Water Company regarding lawn sprinkling shall be strictly complied with. In many towns all sprinkling has been prohibited, but we hope this will not be necessary in Dixon if the consumers will obey the rules. The hours for sprinkling are the same as in the past—from 6 o'clock until 8 in the morning and from 5 until 7 in the evening.

Very truly,
DIXON WATER COMPANY.

DEMENTTOWN

Cheer up. The price of coal hasn't advanced over 50 cents yet.

5 to 8 there isn't any skating by Thanksgiving.

There isn't any necessity of apologizing when you walk on someone else's feet. That's what they use those attributes for.

Our friend Benjamin Snyder informs us that if we ever mention his athletic accomplishments again he'll make some sprinter of us.

Labor day is less than two months away. Get ready for the barbecue.

Many a woman has been relieved of the necessity of "obeying" her husband by his failure to "endow her with his worldly goods."

And we bet that shot will start a few arguments about town this eve.

Many a married life becomes "one grand sweet song" after the first born arrives. In fact it's something like an opera. Full of grand marches with loud calls for the author.

Essay on the Bee.

The bee was created so that people could find a way of getting stung besides buying gold bricks, etc. Personally we have nothing against the bee, but one day last summer a bee had something against us, and we think it was a hypo charged with ammonia. But there's one thing about a bee—it always leaves a good impression behind it.

The bee was first discovered in 1492 Bee, See. It is made up of legs, wings and a long hatpin—which hatpin is carried carefully concealed in the hip pocket.

Bees should frequently be given some blood medicine, as they have the hive. Social bees make social calls continually, while the bumblebees burn around all day. But to conclude—when associating with bees don't monkey with the buzzer, but bee it.

BANDITS TERRORIZE TOWN

Masked Outlaws, Heavily Armed, Hold Up and Rob Many.

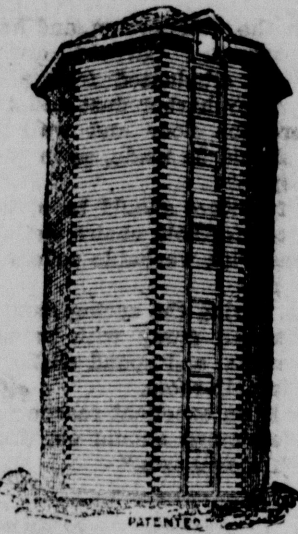

Champaign, Ill., July 9.—Three masked bandits, armed with revolvers and shotguns, terrorized the village of Tolono, Ill. Two farmers driving home were held up and robbed. Then the men made for the Illinois Central station, where the agent was forced at the point of a gun to surrender all the cash on hand. At the same time two men waiting for a train were robbed. The raid was interrupted at this time by a townsmen who ran to his office and seized his gun. His fusillade drove the robbers off.

HEAT KILLS 4 IN BOSTON

Electrical Storm Sweeps Over City and Does Much Damage.

Boston, July 9.—Four deaths and a score of prostrations marked the continuance of the hot wave in this city, the maximum temperature of 94 degrees being a record for this year. Late in the day an electrical storm swept over the city, doing considerable damage. Two aviators who left the aviation field in search of cooler air in the higher reaches, Arch Freeman and George Gray, were caught in the storm and fell into the harbor. They were rescued, little the worse for their ducking.

Common Sense Silo

The Silo Question Solved.

Walls are four inches thick and absolutely airtight. They are substantial and cannot collapse or blow down. There are no hoops or bands requiring constant readjustment.

The height not being fixed, it can be added to from year to year, as the herd increases, and meet the demand for increased storage capacity.

A Dream of Suffragetteedom

When man's last ballot is counted, and woman has cornered her rights, Will the husbands sit up to ask questions when wifey stays out late of nights? Will the women complain of expenses for rent and provisions and meat, While the men look for bargains on Mondays, and vow the new fashions are sweet?

Will man take his place on the rostrum and rally his own weaker sex, Or read from a neatly typed paper solutions of questions that vex? Will man hear in vigorous echoes his ancient attacks of her clubs And listen to hints on the virtues of him who tends children and scrubs?

When man is shoved into the background, will he touch his cheeks up with tints And read beauty columns to garner the helpful suggestions and hints? Will he see his picture emblazoned as starring in dramas by Fitch, Or trudge to his task as a sempster to sew his poor soul in each stitch?

When man has been properly sidetracked will he have a great appetite For chocolate sundaes and soda, and nibble at fudge with delight? Will he be the slave of the fashions? Will he hunt each May a new hat? Will he be a picture of sorrow when wearing an out-of-date hat?

When man's last ballot is counted, and woman's new rule is supreme Then this is the question that murmurs insistently on through our dream: Will woman write jests as the men do on people and parties and life—Will father-in-law jokes pass current? Will we meet the poor henpecked wife?

A RANK HERETIC.

Mrs. Goodfellow—I am afraid our new parson is very unorthodox.
Mrs. Naylor—You don't say.
Mrs. Goodfellow—Yes. He believes that no church should have a church debt.

Things Overheard.

"He's the man right over yonder at that desk with the bald head and the blue tie."

"There was a woman who spoke on 'How Soon Shall We Vote' with a hobbie skirt and a peach-basket hat."

"Oh, you know who I mean—that man who always drives the horse with a silk hat and a mourning band."

"Why, he's the doctor that simply stuffs you on quinine with side whiskers and an office boy in liveries."

"It was the floor walker who has his mustache curled between the elevator and the notion counter."

Makes a Hash of It.

"If music is the food of love, play on," said Shakespeare, quoting from himself to a crowd of cronies at the sign of the Blue Goose with the Glass Eye.

"Yes, play on," growled rare Ben Jonson. "But wait until the hand organ is invented and see how much amorous indigestion is occasioned thereby."

It Surprised Him.

One of the new arrivals across the Styx was telling Noah about the many discoveries of new germs and bacilli. "Well," observed Noah, "if I had known I had all those things on the ark, I'd have lost my nerve for sure."

LACE ON EVERYTHING

NEVER WAS THERE SUCH A PROFUSION AS THIS SEASON.

Almost Every Article of Feminine Raiment Carries This Adornment—Used for the Most Part With Much Cleverness.

If one were to start upon a shopping tour with the determination to buy gowns or wraps or millinery in which no lace appeared she would be likely to return weary and empty handed to her home, for laces are everywhere. The most unpretentious of little silk or wool gowns are designed with the lace collar and cuffs presupposed and even on the least expensive models these are supplied in cheap but effective laces. There never was a time when good-looking gowns and wraps cost so little. Besides the collar and cuffs of lace, pretty frills of it, laid in fine plaits, full over the hands and one occasionally sees a falling frill about the neck.

Lace blouse, lace coats and coat effects, lace fichus and overdresses are in great demand, to be worn with silk or other gowns. These are all separate garments which, like the collar and cuffs, may be adjusted with any costume. Nothing is smarter than the small coats of heavy lace made to be worn with silk or satin skirts or one-piece dresses. They are very beautiful worn with linen dresses also, and certain laces, as for instance Irish crochet, seem especially adapted to linen.

But it is in the body of the gown itself, where laces are made to play a part in the construction and shaping of the design, that they are used with consummate cleverness. There are marvels of management in graceful lines and effective contrast in those models in which lace is incorporated into the gown. One may find three and sometimes even four varieties of lace in one model, each seeming the best for its place.

All the summer dresses have chemisettes or gimpes of lace. Models made of voile or marquisette, or any of the sheer summer fabrics employ the lace trimmed fichu and frills of lace at the sleeves and neck. Heavier laces are used on silk dresses and on the long wraps of satin which are so useful and so graceful.

It is the same story of high favor if one explores the millinery field to find out what millinery of fashion most admires. With the advance of summer and the donning of fingerless gloves we may expect to see the vogue increase in the matter of lace hats. And it is not likely that laces will pass out with the summer, for some of the newest ones are superb when combined with velvet, whose vogue is just well started. So we may expect to see them in the models for fall. In fact the bodice of lace or net or chiffon is more beautiful than any made of heavier fabrics and far more supple and becoming. It is the day of laces and only the morning of that day.

Aids Nature

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, wasted bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making materials, in condensed and concentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughs. The "Discovery" re-establishes the digestive and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.

If your dealer offers something "just as good," it is probably better FOR HIM—it pays better. But you are thinking of the cure not the profit, so there's nothing "just as good" for you. Say so.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, In Plain English; or, Medicine Simplified, 1008 pages, over 700 illustrations, newly revised up-to-date Edition, paper-bound, sent for 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only. Cloth-bound, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

BIG PARROT CAUSES PANIC

Finds Bag Too Hot and Expresses Himself Accordingly.

Hammond, Ind., July 9.—Guests in a local hotel were panic stricken by the cries of, "Whew, it is hot as hell in here," issuing from a bulging bag in the parlor. The bag was found to contain a big parrot, the property of George Smith of New York city and wife, auto tourists bound for San Francisco.

Grand Lodge B. O. P. Elks Meet. Portland, Ore., July 9.—The opening session of the 48th annual grand lodge reunion of the B. O. P. Elks was held in the Oregon national guard armory with addresses of welcome by C. C. Bradley, exalted ruler of the Portland lodge, Mayor Rushlight and others, and a response by John D. Sullivan, grand exalted ruler of New Orleans.

The Helpless Victim. The postman goes his daily round like to a slave in shackles bound; he has to lug a heaping sack that crooks his neck and bends his back, and in that sack are urgent notes from candidates who want our votes.

Insurgents and votives—each one his weighty reason gives why he should vote for Mike or Bill. O, what a lot of ink they spill to make us know and understand the way to save our native land!

Waste baskets yaw for all such stuff, and still are never big enough to hold the heap that comes each day. But see the postman trudge his way with all this lot for us to scan, and he's a civil service man!

Logical, Perhaps. "The meek shall inherit the earth," said the Sunday school teacher. "Now, children, while we are on this subject can any of you tell me who was the meekest man?"

The scholars were silent, and the teacher said: "His name began with M. Don't you remember? I will tell you the first two letters. They are M-o."

"Morgan—Pierpont Morgan!" came a chorus from the class.

PHILOSOPHY OF THE PIPE.

The new time your wife protests about your pipe, its smell and its ashes or carpet parlor carpet, just look superior and tell her you are fulfilling the demands of your race. And if she be incredulous quote M. Wattville, French scientist.

This scientist is a collector of pipes and has been in the game so long and smoked so much himself, that he has evolved a philosophy of the pipe. Here are a few things he says:

The activity of a race is in proportion to the length of the stem of the pipe.

The shorter the pipe the more laborious the nation.

The longer the pipe the lazier the race.

The more frugal the nation, the smaller the pipe.

A large pipe is a sure sign of a wasteful and sensual nation.

The mind of the race may be deduced exactly from its way of smoking.

American Men Take Two Events—Twice Disqualified.

Clean Up in High Jump and 800-Meter Run, But Barred in Relay and One Swimming Race.

Stockholm, Sweden, July 9.—America's athletes piled up victory after victory in the Olympic games here, adding to the firsts they had previously won and placing other men in practically every event which was decided. The only thing which marred the joy of the day's sport—from the American standpoint—was the disqualification of United States men in two events—the 400-meter relay semi-finals and the 400-meter swimming race. In the former the Americans were disqualified for improper handling of the marking posts after they had defeated the team from Great Britain, and in the swimming, Michael McDermott of the Chicago Athletic association was disqualified in the third heat.

America won both the running high jump, in which it took first and third places, and the 800-meter run, in which it scored a clean sweep by taking all three places, as it did in the 100-meter dash.

The final of the 800-meter flat race was a wonderful sight. The eight runners were not 20 feet apart at the finish. Hans Braun, Germany, made a desperate attempt on the last stretch, the large German contingent among the spectators shouting his name frantically, but he stopped exhausted within two yards of the tape. When the three American flags were hoisted great cheers arose all over the stadium.

FIREWORKS START IN RESTAURANT

Bad Blaze Narrowly Averted—4th of July Drew Large Crowd—Ashton Won Ball Game—Events of Day Very Pleasing.

July 8.—The 4th of July was a big day for Ashton. While the crowd was not as large as in some other years, during the day, in the evening the streets were crowded with a happy crowd of people. The program was carried out as advertised, the races being run on Main street and the address by Harry Edwards, which was a fine one, being delivered from the band stand to a large crowd of people. The callithumpian parade caused a great deal of merriment, as there were some funny costumes and the automobile parade in the evening brought out some prettily decorated cars, the first prize going to Roy Jeter and the second to Rev. Gustave Mack. There were a number of other cars in line nicely decorated.

About 2:45 in the afternoon the usual 4th of July rain came up (not on the program) with a good deal of thunder and for a while it looked as if the ball game between the home boys and Steward would have to be cancelled. But the shower only lasted about 20 minutes and the game was played according to schedule, resulting in a victory of 2 to 5 for Ashton. Simpson did the twirling for our boys and all say he pitched a wonderful game. There was a good crowd at the game, the receipts totaling almost $40. The day wound up with a grand display of fireworks, the best ever seen here, and were witnessed by a large crowd. The Ashton band boys are to be congratulated on the successful way in which they carried out the day's program and with the way the whole affair was managed. Not an accident of any kind happened to mar the pleasures of our citizens. The Lafayette band and Ashton band furnished the music for the day.

What might have proved a serious fire was narrowly averted Thursday evening at the Adam Faber restaurant. Mr. Faber, while lighting his gas, in some way ignited the bunting in the front window in which the stock of fireworks was kept for sale and in a second the decorations were all ablaze and the fire crackers popping right and left. One sky rocket shot with a roar through the restaurant and out the back door. Fortunately no one was in its path so no damage was done. Mr. Faber threw the fireworks on the floor and succeeded in putting the fire out before it had gained much headway. The interior of the restaurant was thick with smoke and business had to be suspended for awhile.

Mrs. Charles S. Kron and son Carl of Dixon spent the 4th here with her husband, the tailor.

Mr. and Mrs. Addison Goodman and Mrs. Carl Tippet of Dixon were here to spend the 4th.

Quite a little excitement was caused here the last few days by the rumor that one of Ashton's former young men, who disappeared about two years ago and no trace of whom had been found, was believed to have met with foul play and to have been buried in an old well on a farm a few miles north of town, which was filled up about the time of the young fellow's disappearance. There being good grounds for suspicion the old well is being dug out and at this writing nothing sensational has been found other than the fact that the well seems to have been hurriedly filled up, as it was found that half way down there was a stout plank laid crosswise in the well and the filling was on that. Reports are that parts of harness, new barb wire, netting and most everything it seems that would help fill up quickly was used and has been brought to the surface. Should the body of the young man be found it would surely cause a sensation.

VALUE OF THE SUNROOM

Wise Woman When Superintending the Building of Her Home Will Add This Apartment.

The wise woman when superintending the building of her home will add a sunroom to the house.

This is a place where the children can gain health.

Greenhouses are built to give sunlight to plant life, but the children are allowed to grow in sunless rooms.

The sunroom is best when built upon the second floor, facing east and south.

The numerous windows should be built close together and set in a sloping roof.

This room should be arranged so that it is conveniently independent of the rest of the house, in case of illness.

ness. Paint the walls cream, and have the floor parquet. Carpets and rugs should be eliminated from the sunroom. They harbor dust and germs.

Where the floor and wall join, a curve should be made, as in the modern hospitals.

The furniture should be of the simplest; comfortable chairs, settees and cushions with washable covers should be the rule.

Here, during the spring months, the children can study with particularly good results, and spend all recreation hours in this room.

This is an excellent reason why the sensible woman should set this "trap to catch a sunbeam."

Wilson Abbott is visiting at the S. W. Miller home for a week.

Mrs. John Batchelder and son will leave the last of the week for Texas, where they will spend some time.

CLOUDS ARE LIKE SNOW PEAK

Heavens at Certain Time of Day Resemble Gigantic Glaciers in the Alps.

Berne, Switzerland.—Whoever has traveled in the western states or in Europe knows the beauty and understands the fascination of snow mountains.

At places like Pau, from which on a clear day the whole range of the Pyrenees is visible, or Bern, from which, when the weather is favorable, can be seen the glaciers of the giants among the Oberland Alps, at such places travelers will wait for hours and even for days for the clouds to lift in order to see this sight which is so wonderful. Yet I have often observed at home great white clouds heaped on the horizon which had the same majestic beauty as a distant view of the Alps, the Pyrenees or the Rockies. And no one has stopped to look at them twice or to admire them.

The rosy glow on the Alps at sunset, to see which people will even desert their dinners, the pink glow of sunrise that entices them from their beds in the small hours of the morning—these sights which are so enchanting in their loveliness are surpassed by the coloring of the mountainous cumuli that without going a step out of your way you may frequently see at evening in the western sky.

This thought which has so often passed through my mind was recalled by a sentence written by Sir Francis Younghusband in a book describing Kashmir: "Early in September the atmosphere has been freshened and cooled by the rains which, though they fall lightly in the valley itself, are often heavy in the surrounding mountains. The sun is still powerful in the daytime and the sky unusually bright and clear. But the monsoon will often make a few final efforts. One such day I noted when voluminous masses of cloud rolled up behind the Pir Panjal to a height of twenty-five or thirty thousand feet, their western edges aglow from the setting sun and showing clear and distinct against the background of pinky blue sky, while the great main volume remained dark, heavy and somber, with now and then a split of lightning flashing out, and on the far side, away from the setting sun, threatening tenebrecles stretched out across the valley in an unavailing effort to reach the mountains on the northern side. Under these mighty monsoon masses even the great mountains looked dwarfed and puny. It was a great and final effort of that stupendous natural phenomenon on which bears the waters of the Indian ocean to beat upon the Himalaya."

Nothing could give to people who have never seen a mighty range of mountains a better idea of their appearance than the great clouds that pile themselves just above the distant landscape. The soft, rounded summits are more beautiful than the sharp outlines of the mountain ridges, but the mountains are so often veiled in clouds that the similarity of effect is striking and often in the neighborhood of some great snow-covered range one is uncertain whether it is the actual heights or the clouds that one perceives from a distance.

WET CHEMICALS FOR FUEL

Inventor Thinks He Has Found Substitute for Coal—Liquid Used to Heat Boiler.

Darby, Pa.—After working on the principle for a long time, George Smith, a well known hot water heater expert, believes he has perfected a compound that will do away with coal as a medium for heat.

Smith's invention, which he says will heat a house at a temperature of 70 degrees in winter and maintain it at that in the coldest winter weather, is an elaboration of the principle of heat generation in water by chemical combustion.

The best units generated play on a wrought iron boiler, instead of cast iron, and thus have the advantage of heating water quicker, because this metal is not as thick and yet it is stronger than cast iron. Once the water is heated to a certain point it begins to circulate through the pipes.

Says There Is No Middle Class. Montclair, N. J.—At the closing session of the New Jersey State Federation of Woman's Clubs here Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, one of the delegates, a daughter of the late Julia Ward Howe, objected to the use of the term middle class by Mrs. Setk Abrams, another delegate, in referring to the need for playgrounds in cities. "It is a term copied from an English aristocracy," said Mrs. Hall, "and we do not want it. We are a democracy. We have no 'middle class.' We all belong to the first class."

ALASKA HAS MANY FLOWERS

Immense Fields of Yellow Poppies Grow as Far North as the Sea Islands.

Nome, Alaska.—One of the impressions left with the tourist in Alaska is of the luxuriance of the summer verdure, the rich green that suggests an English landscape. This verdure seems strange in a land associated usually with snow capped mountains and glaciers. The profusion of varicolored flowers and grasses, the result of from eighteen to twenty hours of sunshine a day, makes this country in summer a surprise and delight.

Every one who goes to Alaska takes a promenade along the famous Sitka walk, laid out by the Russians years ago, on the shore of Sitka Bay and the beautiful Indian river. It is noteworthy, not alone because good roads are scarce in this country but also because of its beauty. Those who penetrate this "Lover's Lane," as it is called, are charmed with its delights. Immense and aged fir trees border it, mosses and lichens and wild flowers grow in the shade and the native berries fringe the pathway. The nature lover is enraptured with the mile and a half of sylvan beauty.

One can understand that such a walk may exist in Sitka, which enjoys warm breezes from the sea to such an extent that the air is always moist. The surprising revelation is to find wild flowers in the interior, in regions where snow and ice predominate for many months of the year. There are acres of forgetmenots on mountains 6,000 feet above sea level, so many of them that they make a carpet of blue. You come across deserted Indian villages where the houses, which are built of rough boards, are approached through weeds and epilobium so high and so rank that it is necessary to part them overhead in order to penetrate them. Acres of the magenta hued epilobium lend a bright note to the landscape and it seems to grow everywhere.

Far up to the north, near the snow line on the high mountains, are willows, dwarf alders and birches, while below are firs and spruces, some of them hundreds of years old. Under them is verdure clothing the mountainsides so rank and so green that in imagination one is transplanted to tropical climates. This is especially pleasing to the eye, after the long, hard winter.

This luxuriance is the result of the long summer days and the fact that for ages the forests have been undisturbed. One leg has fallen upon another and decayed, producing a rich vegetable muck in which almost everything will grow. The richness and softness of the soil makes Alaskan wood difficult to obtain and when any large enterprise has been undertaken, as building railroads, the timber, for the most part, has been shipped from Puget Sound.

The wild flowers in this northern country, along the coast and back toward the Yukon, delight with their beauty and fragrance. Far up, near the Seal Islands, are immense fields of yellow poppies, and in other sections there are wild geraniums of a bluish tint, yellow moccasin plants, saxifrage and bluebells.

Skirt Prevents Wreck.

Mobile.—Pulling off her red flannel underskirt, Laura Jones, an aged negro mammy, signaled an incoming passenger train on the Bay Shore railroad in time to prevent the train from dashing into a serious washout.

The train was returning from an Alabama coast resort, and was heavily laden with passengers.

When the passengers learned that the old ex-slave had perhaps saved their lives they took up a collection. "Dis is de mos' money I've ever had in my born days," she exclaimed as she shuffled from the scene.

Deadly "Movie" Realism.

Holldaysburg, Pa.—Roy Wilt and James Salyard, ten-year-old boys, were playing "Old Scout and the Indian," just as they saw it in the moving picture show. Salyard pulled the trigger of an old rifle, and Wilt fell with a bullet in his body. He is dying at the hospital.

MURDERERS ARE EXECUTED

ELECTRICITY

The Servant in the HOUSE

The average shop, or office or store is equipped in more or less degree with labor saving devices. It is if it's modern.

If the headpiece of the boss isn't solid bone, there's probably knowledge in it that these appliances add a snap to the working force. They subtract some of the strain.

There's a heap of inevitable and exhausting drudgery in the average American household. The stress that proceeds from it can be relieved just as strain is eased in the business establishment if the house is equipped for Electric Service.

Then you've only to press a button and a tireless, willing servant is ready instantly to tackle that back-breaking wash tub, or navigate that carpet sweeper, or run that sewing machine, or transfer that ironing from a stewing kitchen into another room or out-doors in summer.

And all this and other kinds of work will be done at a trifling cost. Electrical labor saving appliances lengthen women's lives.

If your house isn't equipped for electric light and power, you can have the work done by us at cost, with payments spread over two years, divided into monthly installments. The EXPENSE is small.

QUEEN SEEKS REST IN ANCIENT WOODS

Wife of King Haakon of Norway Sherwood Forest, Robin Hood's Haunt, Still Thrives.

Her Highness Would Gladly Surrender Title, Wealth and Attention to Again Live the Simple Life in England.

Christiansand, Norway. — Income $200,000 a year. Everybody says "Your majesty." Power to do as she pleases. A husband who is devoted to her. A son who is growing up full of life and spirits, yet a model of what a son and a future monarch ought to be. Subjects universally adoring her. And, withal, Queen Maud of Norway isn't satisfied. She is content with her husband, Norway's King Haakon VII., and she is rejoiced over her son, the Crown Prince Olaf.

But she doesn't care for the $200,000 a year. Norway grants to monarchs; she'd rather have the $40,000 she used to skip along on and be poor. She is tired of being her majesty, and would infinitely prefer being a princess, poor at that, says a writer. She would welcome her earlier life, when she was picked on by a mother-in-law—and where can woman find a more malign fate? She is willing enough that the Norwegian people shall adore her; but she would delight in exchanging her coach of state for the top of a London omnibus, with Norway forgetting all about her.

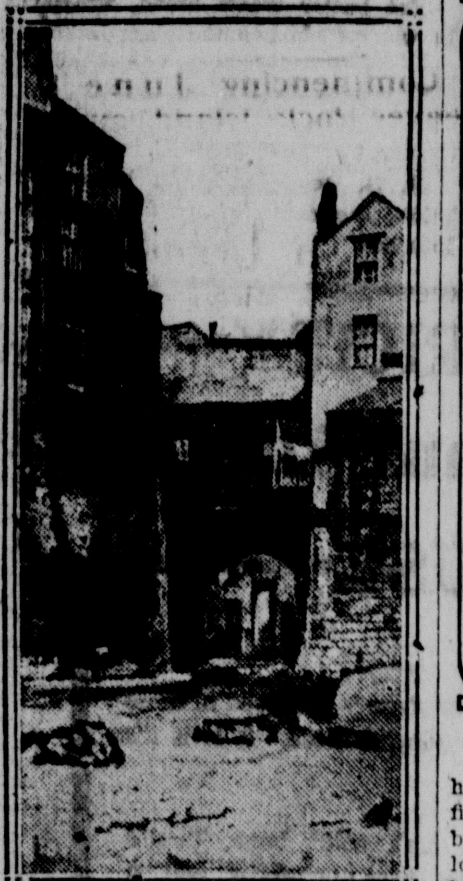

So there, enthroned by a whole nation's deliberate choice, victorious over all misfortune after years of harsh subjection, is a queen who resembles no other queen alive, and a woman who is homesick for the very things which millions of other women are breaking their necks and their husbands backs to get away from.

She has had her grandsons now for half a dozen years, and the longer they have been thrust upon her the sicker she grows of them.

"I sometimes get tired of being royal, especially when I am looked at and wondered over like one of the Tussaud waxworks. I often think how glorious it must be to be able to jump on the top of a bus and have a day out. I think I shall some day."

That was what she said soon after she was crowned as Norway's chosen queen. She thinks it more emphatically now; she is chronically tired of being wondered at, and chronically hungry to jump on top of a bus and have a day out. She said so only the other day in other words.

If she could only abandon her solemn throne; only go to her old home in England and live there in peace and quiet, rearing her boy, now some nine years old, to be a simple gentleman;

Street in Quaint Old Christiansand.

If she could only enjoy her outdoor life as she used to, without any one noticing her and with her husband at her side, to be called Carl instead of Haakon.

She calls him that anyway; but she wants to hear everybody else speak of him by the familiar name, and she longs to hear herself called Harry by the voices of her own family, as she used to be when her father, King Edward, was alive and was skipping out a few thousand pounds a year from his royal income to keep her from being too hard up over in Denmark.

She is different from her mother, Queen Alexandra, who has been moving heaven and earth to retain some vestiges of the royal authority she wielded before Queen Mary so mercilessly relegated her to dowagership and obscurity. She is different from Queen Amelia of Portugal, who braved assassination to hold her tottering throne for the sake of Manuel, the one son the assassin left to her; different from Italy's queen, who assumed a throne in the face of royal contempt and popular dissatisfaction, and fought her battle for respect and obedience through years of suspicion and unkind criticism; different from almost all other queens, who have lived and, having once reigned, have abandoned the royal prominence and prerogatives only at the bayonet point—and even then if we recollect, Marie Antoinette remained resolved to wait for the guillotine.

Notable Woodland in England Is Said to Be Unequaled in All Europe—Many Kings Have Enjoyed the Chase Here.

London.—Now that Robin Hood, prince of outlaws, has appeared again on the stage, it may be interesting to know what his former haunt, Sherwood forest, is like today. When he was alive the forests of North Yorkshire were one immense woodland, but even in its present shrunken size Sherwood is said by a correspondent of the Bellman to be unequalled in all Europe.

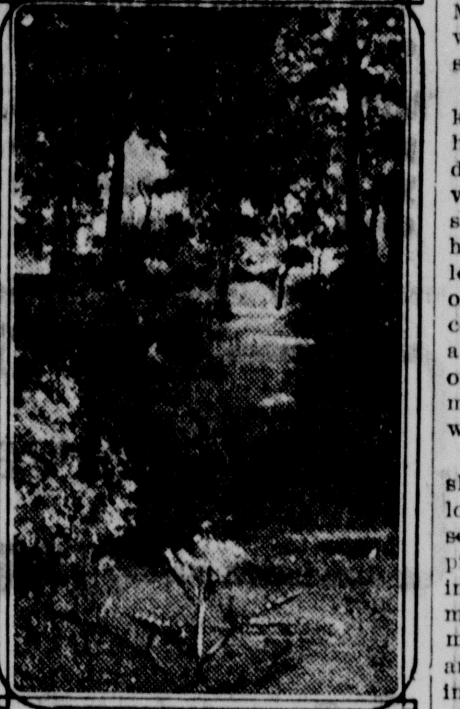

From the days of the Normans to the time of the Stuarts, some six centuries, the kings of England were often in Sherwood forest enjoying the pleasures of the chase. Here and there were royal hunting boxes, of which little now remains save more or less legendary stories. But there are still in existence many remnants of the religious houses which in their day were both numerous and important.

The district known as The Dukerie, is perhaps the finest portion of the existing forest. Its title is due to the fact that within its borders were the homes of the dukes of Portland, Newcastle, Norfolk, Kingston and Leeds. There is no duke of Kingston today, and the dukes of Norfolk and of Leeds have parted with their properties. But Earl Manservants, a representative of the Kingston family, worthily maintains at Thoresby the best traditions of his race. As Welbeck Abbey the duke of Portland resides, and the duke of Newcastle's principal seat is the home of his father's at Clumber.

Sherwood is of such antiquity that no record or history makes any mention of its beginning. There is scarcely a doubt that it was part of the aboriginal forest land with which at one time England was almost covered. Now all that remains of the beautiful woodland is comprised in the portions of Birkland and Bilgham.

It is feared, though, the forest's rapid deterioration may be predicted, for railways are to be run through and coal pits are being opened in the neighborhood and no great time will likely elapse before the forest in all its beauty will be a thing of the past.

One of the most venerable of the ancient manors is the Queen, or Major, oak. At first glance it may be slightly disappointing, for the mass of foliage almost obscures the wonderful trunk, but a nearer approach will fill you with surprise and delight. It has a girth of 30 feet at a height of five feet, while the spread of its branches is nearly 250 feet. The hollow trunk is most remarkable. It has been recorded that seven people have breakfasted within its space and that sixteen people have been squeezed into the hole. The marks of tempests and lightning are visible upon its time-worn trunk.

Birklands owes its name to its birches, but it has oaks also and is a region of grace and beauty. Old and mighty trees are scattered about, some of them worn down to the very ultimatum of ruin, standing huge masses of blackness. A long and very beautiful drive leads to the famous old oak known as the Shambles, or Robin Hood's ladder. It is said that the prince of outlaws used to hang his vension on its branches and perhaps he did. Years ago the tree was set on fire, but though its trunk is charred and hollow, it still stands and flourishes.

Indians' Deer Ceremony. Waco, Wash.—About 200 full-blooded Indians of the Yakima tribe met at the pompon house, half a mile east of this city, in celebration of the coming of new roots and deer. This is an annual event and is celebrated with religious ceremony. Feasting and prayer lasted throughout the entire day, the menu consisting of new roots and deer meat.

5,000 Eggs Daily From Farm. Petaluma, Ore.—Bowman Blanchard, one of the most extensive poultry raisers in the Two Rock valley, made a record shipment of eggs recently. He has more than ten thousand hens on his ranch and gathers more than five thousand eggs daily.

Henry's Business Judgment

How He Selected His Wife's Easter Hat

By Wilbur D. Nesbit

DECLARE," Mrs. Grammore sighed. "I just don't know what to do about a new hat this spring."

"Of course you don't," Henry Grammore agreed with her, sourly. "Of course you don't. There never was a woman who knew what to do about a new Easter hat—except to buy one."

He chuckled at his own sarcasm, which is a way men have. Sarcasm isn't worth a cent to your genuinely sarcastic man unless he can chuckle over it and repeat it mentally to himself and roll it as a sweet morsel under his tongue. Especially is this true of sarcasm about Easter bonnets. Regarding these very necessary appendages of the attire of a woman, man follows the beaten track of all the jokesmiths since Samson, who made the first riddle, and waxes sarcastic as custom dictates.

"I don't see," Henry resumed, having sated himself with chuckles over his own sarcasm, "why in the name of time a woman thinks she has to have a new hat for Easter."

"Why, every woman has one," his wife argued, meekly. "That's the answer. Every woman gets one because she thinks every other woman will have one. And not a confounded one of the lot uses any business judgment in selecting or buying her hat. The milliners know all about women—they're women themselves. So they boost the prices up at Easter time, and laugh in their sleeves at their sisters who come trailing in and go trailing out with the contraptions the milliners are pleased to call bonnets. Bah! I'll bet no milliner will make her own hat. I'll bet she has to go to some other milliner just to have the feminine gratification of being stung. Humph! Have you brought your hat home?"

"Why, no. I said I didn't know what to do about one."

"You might have brought one home and still have been in the dark," Henry treated himself to a few more chuckles over this sarcastic remark. The way men carry on about Easter hats, it serves them right to have to pay big prices for them. Now, if a man would just be calm and philosophical about it, and sit down and reason the matter out, ten to one his wife would either buy a cheaper hat or maybe she wouldn't buy any at all. Maybe, that is. At any rate, she would be happier with the hat when she got it.

"Well, Henry," his wife said, "I know how you always feel about my hats and what they cost, and I have decided this year to act on your advice. I want you to take an hour or so with me tomorrow and pick out a hat for me. Then you'll be sure at least to please yourself with the cost of it—and sometimes I feel that you could exercise perhaps a little more artistic taste than I can, for you are out in the world more, and you know more about what harmonizes and what suits a person, and so on."

Mrs. Grammore looked meek when she said that, but if you could have seen the craftiest little thoughts hopping around and nudging each other in the ribs. She knew the vanity of man. She knew that if you tell a man you rely on his judgment as to anything from setting a hen to making an arship he will modestly accept your estimate of his capacity and offer you his expert services.

"Well," Henry said, "now you're talking sense. I'll meet you at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and we'll go and get that hat. No use to put in a lot of time over it. I'll show you how to pick out a hat, have it boxed, paid for and sent home, without any wear and tear on your nervous system and without losing a lot of valuable time."

Next afternoon he met her as per agreement and together they found their way to the millinery store. It irked Mr. Grammore a bit to have to wait half an hour before they could be waited on, but he profited by the wait by inspecting a number of new pattern hats and scoffing and sniffing at them. By the time Miss Morgan was ready to wait on him he was ready with a plenty of good professional advice on bonnet making for her.

"Taking a bunch of straw and a feather and a yard of ribbon and jamming them together isn't any way to make a hat," he declared. "People ought to use a little thought, as well as materials."

"That's what I think, Mr. Grammore," Miss Morgan said. "You know the finest milliners in the world are men. They have a greater aptness at originating new designs than we women have. I wish we had a man milliner here. I do, indeed."

"Well, I don't claim to be a milliner," Henry said, "but I know what I like when I see it. Now, I've only got a few minutes to spare, and I'll just pick out a hat for my wife and let you send it home."

"Very well," Miss Morgan replied. "I wish all our customers were as good as you. They so seldom seem able to make up their minds."

"That's it," Henry asserted. "Women never know what they want. They fiddle around and can't decide. A man is used to making prompt decisions. His wife means something to him; besides, he reasons things out logically."

"What hat had you in mind for Mrs. Grammore?"

"That little gray one over there would look good on her."

"This one?" Miss Morgan smiled, taking the hat from the case. "It would be lovely."

Henry caught sight of the price mark. It was $150. He stopped Miss Morgan with a wave of his hand.

"Put it back," he said. "Now that I see the other side of it it wouldn't suit her style of beauty at all. That blue one to the left is a better shape."

Miss Morgan put the blue one on Mrs. Grammore's head, and as she did so Henry observed the price ticket. It read $175. He was quick in his disapproval.

"It's too old for her," he stated. "I thought so when I first looked at it, and now that she has it on I see I was right. Bring out that one with the bunch of grapes on it."

To exercise his expert judgment he took this one in his hands and slyly peeped at the price mark. It read $135. He pursed his lips and shook his head sagely.

"I know without her trying this one on that it would make her look too dark," he said. "She needs a hat to bring out her natural beauty and not to hide it."

Mrs. Grammore stood by meekly, while Henry had after hat brought out for his inspection. One after the other he condemned. This one had too wide a brim, that one was too narrow; this one was overtrimmed, that one was too plain—but each and all of them bore price marks that gave Henry chills to the heart.

At last Miss Morgan brought a pretty bonnet to him.

"This one," she said, "may be a trifle giddy for your taste, but—"

"It's pretty jaunty," Henry agreed, taking the hat and turning it back and forth until he saw the price, $45. In the crown. "It's a bit frivolous, but hang it all! She isn't going to wear the thing as a penance. It isn't a bit too giddy for her. Mrs. Grammore has a natural dignity which overcomes any little touch of giddiness in her hats. Now, there's a hat that looks like it might have been made for her. Try it on, my dear. Why, you could hunt the world over and never find a bonnet that becomes you like that. That's my choice. Have it sent home."

"Now There's a Hat That Looks Like It Might Have Been Made for Her."

and I'll pay for it. There. I must get back to my office. Now, you see how a man does things. No worry, no argument—just finding the right thing and stopping with that. Good day."

And he was gone. Mrs. Grammore seized Miss Morgan's hand and shook it.

"That was splendid!" she exclaimed. "It was perfectly dear of you to put all those big price marks on the other hats and show them to him first, but I was horribly afraid some one else might have taken this hat since I decided on it yesterday, even though I did ask you to hold it for me."

"Oh," Miss Morgan laughed, "I wouldn't show it to anybody else. I knew Mr. Grammore would pick it out."

"I'll bet," Mr. Grammore said on Easter morning, "that you couldn't have found a hat that suited you better than this one does."

"I'm sure I couldn't, dear," Mrs. Grammore answered, gratefully. Which remark filled Henry with a perfectly justifiable pride.

CONSIDERING THE LILIES.

The lilies on the Easter hat— They neither toll nor spin; They smile with lax impudence, Sometimes they seem to grin; They never grew in any field, Nor prinked the meadow green; They nod, and have their being, just Because of a machine.

The lilies on the Easter hat— Of every hue and shade In them the wives of Solomon, Could never be arrayed. Three hundred wives had Solomon, And shokels he could hoard, But such a bunch of bonnets was More than he could afford.

The lilies on the Easter hat— The gaudy hues, too— They never work; but this is what They do for me and you: They make us work, and toil, and strive, And bustle with a will, That we may lave the cash to pay The millinery bill.

The ONLOOKER WILBUR D. NESBIT HIS NEW PHILOSOPHY

I've done quit worryin' over things; I've fretted over all this earth, An' laid awake to think o' kings That had to skip for all their worth, I've set up nights to figure out The way the country ought to run— An' nothin' took th' rightabout For all th' worryin' I've done.

I've done stopped worryin' over crops— I got th' headache over wheat, An' corn an' rye an' oats an' hops; I'd talk to ever'one I'd meet About th' things that worried me, An' how I feared hard luck would hit— An' honest, fur as I can see, I never changed things—not a bit!

I've done stopped worryin' over how Th' politicians play their tricks; I don't get me to worry now About th' nation's politics. I reckon I've put in more time Jest worryin' about this land, It didn't help. I tell you, I'm A-takin' quite another stand.

I've done quit worryin' over wealth, An' sun an' rain an' wind an' snow, An' symptoms of my fallin' health, An' where to stay, an' where to go, Why, all th' things that worried us Will stay right with us all our days— An' most o' which we fret an' fuss Don't never happen anyways!

HELPFUL ADVICE.

The propensity of a dog that has just been purchased to run away, going back to its former home, may be curbed by purchasing the former home and moving into it. The dog will then see that it is futile to try to leave its new owner.

Last winter's coal bills should not be thrown away. When the hot weather comes they will afford the means of whiling away many a dull hour.

Cold cabbage left from last night's corned beef dinner may be made into a beautiful dessert thus: Place the cabbage in a convenient tin pan. Then in your freezer place the ingredients for a sherbet, and freeze them as usual. Now take the cabbage and throw it in the garbage pail.

Our best authorities differ upon the question of whether when one pays a friend's carfare he should take a transfer when the friend is going to continue his trip. Some say it smacks of commercialism to take the transfer, which will not be used in any event. This, however, is a problem that may well be left to the conscience of the individual. There are some questions which we must decide for ourselves, being governed, of course, by the circumstances obtaining at the time the questions arise.

Just a Little Fable. Once Upon a Time a Coarse Sarcastic Man married a Timid Girl who Insisted Upon doing her own Cooking. One Day she handed Him a slice of Something that Looked Like the Cross-Section of a Tombstone.

"What'n'dickens is This?" asked the Cruel Husband, gazing Moodily at His Front Tooth, which had Broken off in the Edge of the Material.

"That is Angel Food," replied the Fond and Trusting Wife.

"Angel Food," he yelled in Unseemly tones. "Then I Declare Myself right Here and Now. I'm going to Backslide. No Eternity for me in a Place where the Food is Like That."

Dixon Citizens Gladly Testify and Confidently Recommend Doan's Kidney Pills

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Kidney Pills so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Dixon citizen.

Joan Salzman, 103 Artesian Ave., Dixon, Ill., says: "I have no reason to change my good opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I publicly expressed some years ago. I had back ache a great deal and pains across my loins. My kidneys did not act regularly and I felt miserable in every way. Finally I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Leake Bros. Co's Drug store and they did good work, relieving me. I keep them in the house and whenever I take them, they help me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo New York, sole agents for the United States.

HELL IS REPUDIATED

THE DENATURED AUTO

WILBUR D. NESBIT

John Gilpin was a citizen of credit and renown

Until his auto got him into rows all over town

He took the auto from its place beside an empty stall

And filled the tank with what is called denatured alcohol

The auto sputtered down the street in an uplifted mood,

A jolly gait, a joyous pace it was that it pursued;

But soon its honks grew raucous and its splutterings grew thick—

Instead of "putt-chuff-chuff" it changed to "tick-tick-tick-tick-tick"

The shades of dusk came on apace, the auto shrieked with joy,

And seemed to say: "Fill up ze tank amuzer time, ol' boy!"

And though John Gilpin did his best to slow it up a bit

The auto struck a gait that meant, "Let's make a night of it!"

And so it went along the streets, with people playing tag,

With lamps aglow, now to and fro—an auto with a jag!

And then it tried to climb a tree, and leaned against a lamp-post and went solemnly to sleep.

John Gilpin on the morrow found he could not turn its crank

Until he'd got a quart of bromo-seltzer in its tank.

But O, 'tis sad to tell about it; 't is surely a shame—

Although the auto had the jag, John Gilpin got the blame.

HIS PLEA.

"Your reputation," we said to him, in stern tones, "is spotted."

"But," he explained, "you should remember that I freckle very easily."

HELL IS REPUDIATED

International Bible Students' Association Abolish Place.

Appeal Made to Every Minister in America to Publish Signed Statement to Same Effect.

Washington, July 9.—By unanimous action the International Bible Students' association here adopted a resolution unreservedly repudiating as thoroughly unscriptural the teaching of a place, state or condition of "hell fire and brimstone" for the torment of the wicked. The 4,000 delegates to the convention resolved that the vast majority of ministers of all Protestant denominations in the United States have privately repudiated the "hell fire" theory, but for supposedly good reasons hesitated fully to inform their congregations. It was the sense of the convention that on this account thousands and perhaps tens of thousands were being driven into skepticism or infidelity.

To every minister in the United States the convention appealed to publish in his local newspaper over his signature a statement declaring whether he believed the Bible taught the doctrine of a literal "hell," and every newspaper editor was requested to invite the ministers of his locality to avail themselves of his newspaper's columns for that purpose.

The "hell fire" question was brought up by Brig. Gen. William P. Hall, U. S. A., who requested the association to repudiate the doctrine. There was an animated discussion before the resolution, presented by Dr. L. E. Smith of Louisville, was adopted.

Solid As a Rock!

Here is the absolutely new anchoring device used only on the old reliable Sagaw Silo, which makes it as solid as one piece of granite—as immovable as a mountain. It is our Handy Inner Anchoring Hoop, which circles the inside of the silo above the silage and directly opposite the top outside hoop. It supports any stave that might loosen and prevents them falling inward. Once in place, it needs no attention, no adjusting. Cables from anchoring points to ground rods complete support that dynamite could hardly move. No loose staves! No falling in! No blowing down! Write today for details. ### SLAYER FLEES ON TROLLEY

Peter Parri, a Tailor, Kills His Wife at "L" Station in Chicago, Then Holds Crowd at Bay.

Chicago, July 9.—Mrs. Theresa Parri, twenty years old, was shot and killed by her husband, Peter Parri, a tailor, in front of the entrance of an elevated railroad station on the West side. Witnesses told the police that the couple quarreled just before the tragedy. Parri flourished the revolver, threatening to kill any one who approached him and boarding a trolley car escaped.

Call Vaccination Barbarism.

Peoria, July 9.—The thirteenth annual convention of the Illinois Osteopathic association adopted resolutions savagely attacking the Owens bill, now before congress and the practice of vaccination. The Owens bill is advocated by the American Medical society and provides for the creation of a national health bureau. Joining with the osteopaths in denouncing it are the homeopaths, the eclectics and Christian Scientists. Vaccination is characterized as a relic of barbarism. How to secure legislation was discussed at length, as was the proposed endowment of an osteopath institute in Chicago.

Illinois Fair Contract Let.

Springfield, July 9.—J. F. Duncan of Springfield was awarded the contract to build the new sheep and swine pavilions at the state fair grounds by the construction committee of the state board of agriculture. The contract price was $123,680. Work was commenced within three hours after the contract was let. Duncan's contract provides for the construction of all of the buildings but the roof. The National Roofing Materials company of Edwardsville received the roofing contract. The buildings are to be completed within three months.

To Issue Call for Convention.

Chicago, July 9.—A call for a state convention of the new Progressive party will be issued in Chicago some time during the week. The gathering is to be held at Springfield, according to plans now formed and will probably be summoned to meet about July 20. The convention is to determine the manner of selecting delegates to the national convention called to meet in Chicago August 5. The convention itself may name the delegates to the national convention. It will also decide whether a state ticket will be put in the field.

Illinois State Crop Bad.

Springfield, July 9.—"Corn conditions in Illinois are unfavorable," says the crop bulletin of the state board of agriculture. According to the bulletin, the conditions of the corn crop are 80 per cent. of normal, due largely to inferior seed, lateness of the season and the ravages of cut worms. Winter wheat is in an even worse condition, according to the report. The average condition in the state is 45 per cent. of normal, a decrease of nine per cent. in condition since May 1.

Naval Reserves Kept Busy.

Chicago, July 9.—Illinois naval reserves, who started on an eight-day cruise on the United States gunboat Dubuque, passed a day at South Manitou scrubbing the craft from line to truck. When the ship is shipshape again a start will be made for Mackinac, where all the crew will be granted shore leave and where various drills will be gone through. There were 157 members of the reserve with twelve officers on board when the start was made.

Bolt Kills Duquoin Boy.

Duquoin, July 9.—An electrical storm which swept over this section caused the death of the eight-year-old son of Potter Harriss, a farmer of Paradise, northeast of here. The boy was struck by lightning in the yard near the house. The home of Nick Romeo in this city was struck and damaged by lightning. None of the occupants was injured.

Illinois to Let Coal Contract.

Springfield, July 9.—Contracts for approximately 181,000 bushels of coal will be let by the state board of administration. This will represent the need in the coal line of the eighteen charitable institutions for the coming year. The board sent out specifications for quarterly supplies, contracts for which will be let July 22.

Anna's Postal Receipts $10,544.58.
Anna, July 9.—The Anna post office receipts for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1912, show substantial gains, the total being $10,544.58, as compared with $10,018.42 for 1911. The year just closed shows a net gain of $526.16.

Train Kills Decatur Boy.

Decatur, July 9.—Paul Pontek, twenty-two, of this city, was beheaded by a Wabash train here while attempting to crawl beneath it on his way to work.

Old Settlers to Met at Newbourn.
Springfield, July 9.—The annual reunion of the Sangamon County Old Settlers' association will be held Wednesday, August 28, at Newbourn.
